INDIA METEOROLOGICAL DEPARTMENT

New Delhi, the 12th August 1968

Memorandum on the Rainfall of June and July and the Probable Amount during August and September, 1968

1. Weather in India during June and July.

The rainfall for the months of June and July, 1968 was in large excess in Haryana, Punjab and Kerala, in moderate excess in Gangetic West Bengal, Bihar Plains and the Arabian Sea Islands and in slight excess in South Assam, Bihar Plateau and Coastal Mysore. It was in slight defect in Orissa, east Madhya Pradesh, Vidarbha, Rayalaseema and South Interior Mysore, in moderate defect in West Rajasthan, Gujarat Region, Madhya Maharashtra, coastal Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and Madras State and in large defect in Saurashtra and Kutch. The rainfall was normal over the rest of the country.

June: The southwest monsoon which had advanced into the Andaman Sea and the southern parts of the Bay of Bengal by 8th May under the influence of a severe cyclonic storm, weakened by 12th and remained so till the end of the month. It slowly extended northwards during the first week of June and set in over Assam by 9th which is about a week later than the normal date. Earlier, during the first week, there was good thunder-shower activity over northeast India and also over east Uttar Pradesh, east Madhya Pradesh and adjoining Andhra Pradesh due to an upper air cyclonic circulation persisting over east Madhya Pradesh and neighbourhood.

The southwest monsoon had also advanced into the Comorin and Maldive areas by the end of May; but it advanced into Kerala only by 8th June, about a week behind the normal date. A trough of low pressure forming over the extreme east central Arabian Sea off the Mysore coast moved slowly northwards to the northeast Arabian Sea off Gujarat coast during the second week. Under its influence, the monsoon advanced steadily northwards and covered the entire Peninsula by the middle of the month. It also extended into Gujarat State as a feeble current in the course of the next four days. The monsoon activity was well maintained along the west coast during the second fortnight.

A low pressure area which formed over the head Bay of Bengal on 11th intensified into a depression by the next morning centred about 200 Kms. southeast of Calcutta. Moving slowly in a northerly direction, it crossed the West Bengal—East Pakistan coast on 13th morning. It weakened into a low pressure area over Bihar State and adjoining West Bengal on 15th. Persisting there till 17th, it moved away eastwards across north Assam by 20th. Under its influence, the monsoon extended into West Bengal, Bihar State and Orissa in the course of second week. It also advanced into east Madhya Pradesh and the eastern parts of Uttar Pradesh by 20th. According to press reports, the continuous heavy rains in Assam during the third week led to serious flood there causing severe damage to standing crops and disrupting traffic. Although the floods showed signs of abatement at the beginning of the last week, another spell of floods followed immediately due to the increased activity of the monsoon there. A well marked low pressure area forming over the north-west Bay of Bengal on 24th moved inland and persisted over northeast Madhya Pradesh and adjoining Orissa and Bihar Plateau till the end of the month. Under its influence there was good monsoon activity over most parts of northeast India and in east Madhya Pradesh. The monsoon also advanced into west Madhya Pradesh and the central parts of Uttar Pradesh at the beginning of the last week.

Over northwest India, there was widespread thunderstorm activity with good precipitation over the Western Himalayas and adjoining plains during the first twelve days of the month when an upper air cyclonic circulation persisted there. The seasonal low over West Pakistan and adjoining northwest India was well marked during the second fortnight and there was good duststorm or thunderstorm activity over the plains of northwest India. Delhi was under a blanket of dust, disrupting air traffic on 17th and 18th. The Western Himalayas received good rainfall during the last week. The monsoon also advanced into the western parts of Uttar Pradesh by the end of the month.

The rainfall for the month of June was in large excess in Gangetic West Bengal, Bihar Plains and Himachal Pradesh, in moderate excess in Bihar Plateau and Haryana and in slight excess in north Assam and the Arabian Sea Islands. It was in slight defect in Orissa, east Uttar Pradesh, east Madhya Pradesh, Rayalaseema and Madras State, in moderate defect in west Uttar Pradesh, Jammu and Kashmir, Madhya Maharashtra, Marathwada, Vidarbha and Telangana and in large defect in Rajasthan, west Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat State and coastal Andhra Pradesh. The rainfall was normal over the rest of the country.

July: Under the influence of a trough of low pressure off the Mysore and Maharashtra coasts, moving northwards to Gujarat coast, the monsoon was strong along the west coast during the first week. The monsoon also advanced into the northwest India and covered the entire country by 9th. The continuous heavy rain in Kerala was reported to have caused serious floods inundating low lying areas and submerging vast areas of paddy crops. Although there was a slight improvement in the floods there, towards the end of the first week, it soon deteriorated with renewed strong monsoon activity during the next two weeks leading to prolonged serious floods, the worst affected areas being Calicut and Cannanore districts, as reported by the press. Besides the severe damage to standing crops and public property, more than 50 people were reported to have been killed. Coastal Mysore was also affected by floods during the third week. There was a general decrease in the intensity of rainfall during the last ten days of the month along the west coast with consequent improvement in the flood situation.

The monsoon activity was well maintained over most parts of north and central India due to the development of a number of low pressure systems there. In association with a low pressure area moving slowly northwards from northeast Madhya Pradesh to east Uttar Pradesh during the period 4th-8th the monsoon was quite strong over Uttar Pradesh and the central parts of the country. A deep land depression forming on the 9th morning with centre near Krishnanagar move slowly northeastwards and weakened over the western parts of Assam by 12th. Under its influence, northeast India received a spell of heavy rains. Calcutta recorded 18 Cms. of rain on the 9th, which was the heaviest in July during the last fifty years. The heavy rains caused serious floods in West Bengal and ten people were reported to have been killed and about five lakh people affected by the floods there. The rivers in Assam also rose in spate and flooded vast areas.

A well marked low pressure area forming over northwest Madhya Pradesh and neighbourhood on 10th moved to northeast Rajasthan and adjoining west Uttar Pradesh, weakened and persisted there till 15th. In association with it, there was good monsoon activity over most parts of northwest India Uttar Pradesh and the central parts of the country during the second week, the activity being particularly marked over east Rajasthan, Haryana and west Uttar Pradesh. The unusually heavy rains in many parts of Rajasthan resulted in heavy floods causing serious damage to life property and public works and disrupting road and rail communications. About 45 people were reported to have lost their lives in the floods and half a million people and area of 15,000 sq. kms. were affected. Another low pressure area moved from the northwest Bay of Bengal to Rajasthan during the period 16th to 20th. Later two upper air cyclonic circulations also lay over Rajasthan and adjoining areas till 25th. In association with these developments, the monsoon continued to be active over north India with pronounced activity over west Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh and Bihar Plains. As reported by the press, the heavy rains caused inundation due to flood waters in Haryana, Delhi area, Punjab, Uttar Pradesh and Bihar State. According to another press report, the village of Subagh in Meerut district was almost completely wiped out in a cloud burst on 18th night. A low pressure area which formed over the central and adjoining north Bay of Bengal on 24th intensified progressively into a depression by the morning of 26th centred near Lat. 18.0° N and Long. 88.5° E and into a deep depression by 28th morning with centre about 150 Kms. east-southeast of Chandbali. Moving west-northwestwards it crossed the north Orissa coast near Chandbali on the night of 28-29th and weakening into a depression lay over southeast Rajasthan and adjoining west Madhya Pradesh on the last day of the month. Under its influence, the monsoon was strong over the north Peninsula and the central parts of the country with well distributed rainfall over the rest of the country.

Rainfall for the month of July was in large excess in Haryana, Punjab Kerala and the Arabian Sea Islands, in moderate excess in west Madhya Pradesh, Marathwada and coastal Mysore and in slight excess in the Bay Islands, south Assam, West Bengal and east Rajasthan. It was in slight defect in Orissa, Himachal Pradesh, west Rajasthan, east Madhya Pradesh, Gujarat Region, Madhya Maharashtra, Andhra Pradesh and south Interior Mysore and in large defect in Saurashtra and Kutch and Madras State. The rainfall was normal over the rest of the country.

The following table gives for each sub-division the total rainfall during June and July, its departure from normal and the percentage departure from normal :—

2. Conditions having influence on the rain of August and September, 1968.

A foreshadowing of the monsoon rainfall of June to September was issued early in June. Recent data have been examined to see if any useful supplementary foreshadowing for the remainder of the season can now be given. The relevant data are the following :—

Indian Pressure in July.—In July pressure was generally below normal over the entire country, except east of Longitude 85°E and south of Latitude 14°N.

Indian Ocean Pressure in July.—At Mauritius, pressure was in excess of normal by 3.3 mb.

Java Rain.—The monthly rainfall departures from October, 1967 to February, 1968 were—51 per cent—17 per cent, +10 per cent, —2 per cent and —6 per cent respectively.

South Rhodesia Rain.—Rainfall from October, 1967 to April, 1968 was in defect by 294.6 mms.

South American Pressure.—Pressure departures were as follows :—

	Buenos Aires	Cordoba	Santiago
June, 1968 .. ..	+2.1 mb.	+1.5 mb.	+1.5 mb.
July, 1968 .. ..	+2.1 mb.	+0.7 mb.	+1.1 mb.

Indo-Gangetic River Discharges.—Mean departure of the total river discharges during April and May, 1968 was in excess by 12 (10,000 cusecs).

3. Inferences from the Information :

For the Peninsula—taken to consist of Maharashtra, Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh, Interior Mysore, North, Telangana and Coastal Mysore (excluding South Kanara)—the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability, Mauritius pressure, Java Rain, Indian Pressure and South Rhodesia Rain. Of these factors, this year Indian pressure is favourable, Java rain is moderately favourable, South Rhodesia Rain is indifferent and Mauritius pressure is very unfavourable. The statistical analysis indicates that there is a four to one chance that the total rainfall of August and September 1968 in the Peninsula will be above 74 per cent of the normal.

For Northwest India—taken to consist of the Uttar Pradesh, Haryana, the Punjab, Himachal Pradesh, Delhi, Chandigarh and Rajasthan—the factors used are, in the order of decreasing reliability, Indo-Gangetic river discharges, Indian pressure, South American Pressure, Mauritius pressure and South Rhodesia rain. Of these factors, this year South American pressure and South Rhodesia rain are both very favourable. Indian pressure is indifferent, Indo-Gangetic river discharges and Mauritius pressure are both very unfavourable. The statistical analysis indicates that there is a four to one chance that the total rainfall of August and September 1968 in Northwest India will be above 83 per cent of the normal.

4 Summary

The factors are conflicting and all that can be said is that rainfall of August and September, 1968 will be in slight defect in Peninsula and nearly normal in Northwest India.
